

Search

EAT, DRINK & PARTY

Cat in a grey concrete house

The thing about Berlin and its bars is that after the fall of the wall there was almost too much free space to choose from. Berliners have been spoiled with bars in some of the most outlandish period venues. Enter "Le Chat Gris", a neo-modern watering hole cum subterranean club right by one of Berlin's busiest bar strips, Torstrasse. Located in the ground floor and basement of the highly distinctive anthracite building known as "L40" (derived from the address: Linienstrasse 40) Le Chat Gris is something of a novelty in that the premises were only recently built in 2011. With lots of mirroring in various hues, floral lightshades in bronze and hints of neo-art deco, it has all the trappings of a grown-ups bar with the added extra of lots of mischief going on downstairs on the dancefloor. What's more, Le Chat Gris isn't just a cocktail lounge for Berlin's impeccably under-overdressed and very creative Mitte crowd; every day at 5 p.m. is also Crémant time.

-ok

Le Chat Gris

Linienstrasse 40, Berlin-Mitte

0 COMMENTS / KOMMENTARE

HINTERLASSE EINE ANTWORT

Name (erforderlich)

E-Mail-Adresse (wird nicht veröffentlicht) (erforderlich)

Website

Kommentar senden

CAPTCHA Code *

OUT NOW

MAY / JUNE ISSUE 2012

The next issue of Berlin&I is now available in all good newsagents and in the city's top hotels! Pick up [...]

IT'S JUST A LITTLE CRUSH...

Hotel Crush: The Mandala

In our series "Hotel Crush" we follow hot on the heels of our magazine – into the best hotels in [...]

Restaurant Crush: Chipps

In the heart of Mitte, surrounded by neo-modern townhouses and the foreign office, Chipps has earned a reputation as a [...]

Find us on Facebook

Berlin&I

150 people like Berlin&I.

Camilla

Joanna

Marie

Mirsad

Marina

Jakob

Facebook social plugin

NEWSLETTER

ANMELDEN